Greetings from your President

Hello Hampshire Breeders,

Greetings! I hope everyone is surviving the 2016-17 winter season! Southwestern MN has had its normal share of cold weather and blizzard-like events; but these have been coupled with some mild, above average temperature stretches as well. So, I guess normal is good.

I'm guessing lambing barns either are, or will be, full of ewes waiting to lamb; and grouping pens occupied by families of mothers and bouncing, young lambs. It's one of any shepherd's favorite things to experience: freshly bedded pens with new crop lambs jumping and dodging about. I sincerely hope that all sheep folks take the chance to enjoy some of these simple pleasures!

While most shepherds across the country are in their busiest time of year, our association is also busy gearing for the future. One of the most recent advancements that our directors and office staff are working to develop is greater on-line capabilities with our pedigree software. Shortly before the first of the year, our board made the decision to hire a contractor to help us create this benefit for our members. When completed, members will be able to do on-line pedigree searches, along with greater flexibility in generating on-line registrations and transfers. Stay tuned for further updates to this exciting new benefit!

Another important focus for the future is the youth of our association and industry. It is the vision of the board to have an active, healthy junior association; with opportunities and events scheduled to encourage interest and co-mingling of our junior members. This organization would be active throughout the US and help to develop young sheep enthusiasts into future leaders of our Hampshire breed and sheep industry. This, of course, will not happen overnight. And it won't happen without good leadership from our senior membership. These efforts will be directed by the junior committee, and we will be seeking help from outside of the board of directors to accomplish this vision. Many thanks to the adult members that have already placed the stepping-stones to the foundation of what lies ahead for our junior association!

As spring approaches, please consider using some of the marketing opportunities that the AHSA helps to sponsor. There will be 2 on-line sales that will be looking for quality consignments. Be thinking about which new-born lambs that may be potential sale sheep from your operation; and there is always great demand for top-end show yearlings and stud rams.

Please be sure to keep up with the latest news, information, and show/sale schedule by reading the weekly versions of the "Hampshire Happenings". This newsletter is available by email, so if you're not receiving it and would like to, contact Jeff Ebert or your director so that you may be added to the list.

Stay warm! Spring will be here soon!

Tom Bobendrier, Pipestone, MN

that was dammed by an Art Frame ewe that is sired by Breakthrough.

Exhibited by Pine Lawn Farms who have purchased a substantial number of ewes from us in recent years. Check our fall ad for other examples of customer successes with our genetics this past year.

Koehler 1330 RR Times Square (Breakthrough x Bison x Wheaton 4-086)

A home raised stud. Most of our 2016 born rams and ewes that we are growing out are sired by him. The majority of rams in his pedigree are also home raised including Breakthrough, Red Baron, Bison, Frame 6066, and Signature. His maternal side traces back through 12 generations of home raised Koehler and Frame ewes.

Koehler 1519 RR Central Park, a March 2015 full brother to Times Square (Breakthrough x Bison).

Shown here shortly after shearing last spring, he and his twin brother (Koehler 1520 RR Broadway) are very level correct rams that combine size and correctness and will sire many of our 2017 lambs.

AMERICAN HAMPSHIRE SHEEP ASSOCIATION SEEKS SUMMER INTERN

The American Hampshire Sheep Association is seeking a paid summer intern to help with registry work for the AHSA and our Associated Registry clients. The ideal candidate would be a college aged student who has a background in the sheep industry. The preferred work timeline would be from mid-May through mid-August, although the start and end dates are somewhat flexible. Some travel to shows and sales might be included for the right candidate. If you are interested in applying for the AHSA summer internship, please contact Jeff at asregistry@gmail.com or 785-456-8500 to receive an application.

MEET YOUR DISTRICT 8 DIRECTOR

I grew up on a small farm in Massachusetts, where we raised about 1,000 head of hogs and 250 head of commercial sheep. Due to our closed swine herd status, when my brother and I became interested in showing livestock more extensively, we were encouraged to look into sheep. In 2002, I purchased my first set of Hampshire ewe lambs at the New England Sale and have been hooked on the breed ever since. I showed extensively during my high school career and continued to show in junior shows while I was in college at Oklahoma State University (Go Pokes!).

While I was only able to show my Hampshires in a limited capacity for a few years post-college as I was in the process of launching my career, I still maintained my flock with help from my family. Luckily, my career recently granted me the opportunity to move closer to home and in doing so, allows me to be more involved with my flock. Currently I have about 20 head of ewes that I'm looking forward to lambing this year and showing the offspring next show season.

I am flattered to have the opportunity to serve on the board of directors and represent my district. I believe the breed has made many positive strides forward in recent years, especially in our junior program. I grew up watching my brother show Southdowns, which have a very active junior program, and I'd like to see the Hampshire breed have similar, if not better, opportunities for our youth.

Like all of the AHSA board members, I'm always available for communication and questions from members. You can call me at 413-387-2726 or email me at katelyn.parsons@okstate.edu.

FOLLOW THESE 10 STEPS TO BECOME AN EFFECTIVE NSIP BREEDER

Enroll into NSIP Commit to genetic progress with NSIP, America's Genetic Foundation for Profitable Sheep Industry.

Submit Performance Data Sheep that have been selected based on EBVs, derived from performance data, are often genetically superior to animals without EBVs.

Cooperate with Other NSIP Breeds One of the strengths of NSIP is the ability to do across flock genetic comparisons. The best method to probe elite status of an animal is to test its genetics in multiple flocks.

Plan Breeding Groups to Test Genetics Genetic predictions are greatly improved when multiple sires and dams have offspring born within a similar time and managed similarly.

Collect the Right Data at the Right Time Develop a strategic performance data collection protocol that fits the breed type and flock management system starting with date of birth and percentage. After weaning weight, data collection is optional based on the goals of the breeder and commercial clientele.

Maintain Good Contemporary Groups The program relies on data from on-farm performance testing designed to minimize non-genetic sources of variation. Genetic predictions are most reliable when individuals are compared with the correct contemporary group.

Communicate with Commercial Producers EBVs are a tool to improve the productivity of the national flock by distributing genetics from seedstock producers to the commercial industry. Explain to customers why EBVs are important and how to use them to improve profitability and listen to their feedback.

Make Sound Breeding Decisions EBVs should be used in combination with visual appraisal to ensure the breeding animals are structurally sound and void of genetically heritable defects.

Be Honest Very rarely does an animal exist that does not have flaws. Both the breeders and NSIP are negatively affected when breeders are not forthcoming with all information.

Be Patient and Trust the Data It takes multiple generations of collecting and submitting performance data to accurately predict genetic merit within a flock. Over time, the data will reveal the truth, so be patient.

Learn more about how NSIP's genetic evaluation tool can help your flock at www.nsip.org

ALL AMERICAN JUNIOR SHOW

The 2017 All-American Junior Show will be held June 29th-July 2nd at the Alliant Energy Center in Madison, WI. This show has become one of the most popular shows for our Hampshire youth. Hampshires are generally one of the largest breeds that exhibit at the AAJS as there are classes both for fitted and slick shorn Hampshires as well as Hampshire market lambs. Watch the Hampshire website and the Hampshire Happenings for more information on the AAJS. More details can also be found at www.allamericanjuniorshow.com. Entry deadline is usually around May 25th for the AAJS.

MIDWEST JUNIOR PREVIEW SHOW

The 2017 Midwest Junior Preview Show will be held in Sedalia, MO on June 3rd. This has become one of the top shows in the Midwest for breeding sheep. There are classes for both fitted and slick shorn Hampshires. Hampshires will have two classes for yearlings ewes (split on Feb. 15th), fall, January, February, and March lamb classes both for ewes and rams. The American Hampshire Sheep Association helps sponsor the Hampshire portion of this show with a $1,000 contribution. Entries must be received by Friday June 2nd at 8:00pm either in person or by phone to allow show staff time to prepare the class schedule. For more information on the MJPS go to www.midwestjuniorpreviewshow.com.

EASTERN REGIONAL HAMPSHIRE SALE

The Eastern Regional Hampshire Sale will be held May 11-13 in Eaton, Ohio. The sale offers both fitted and slick shorn classes for Hampshires. AHSA SPONSORED ONLINE SALES

The American Hampshire Sheep Association is sponsoring two online sales this spring. Each sale will offer registered Hampshire yearling ewes and rams and ewe and ram lambs. Sale dates are for these two sales are May 2nd and June 6th and hosted by Willoughby Sales. The entry deadline for both sales is ten days prior to the sale date. Entry fees are $10 per ewe entry and $50 per ram entry. Entry information can be found on the Hampshire website at www.hampshires.org or by contacting Jeff at the AHSA office at 785-456-8500. These sales are an opportunity for established or new breeders to offer their genetics to a nationwide audience. Quality pictures and or videos and good delivery options are critical for creating a successful sale.

Junior Spotlight

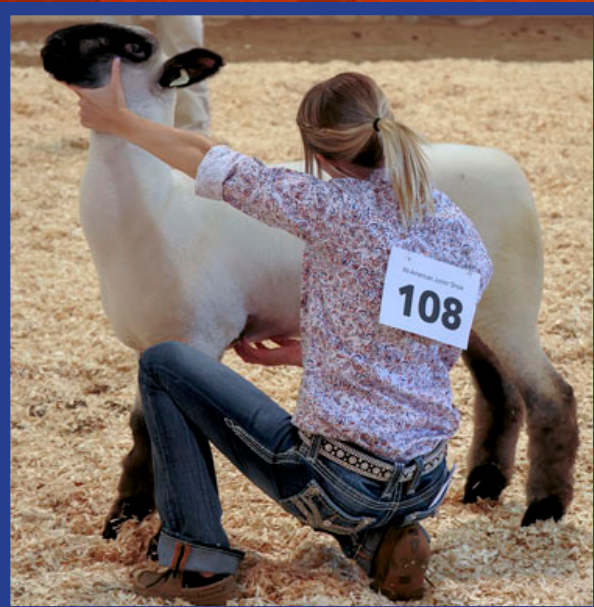

MIRANDA HUNTER

Miranda Hunter is 20 and from Newark, Delaware. She graduated from Saint Elizabeth High School in 2015 and currently works full time at the local hospital, Christiana Care, in the Cardiology Department.

She was an active 4-H member for over 12 years, holding various leadership positions including Club President, Junior Council President, State Teen Council County Representative and State Teen Council Vice President. Today She currently serves as a 4-H leader for a sheep club in Delaware. 4-H introduced her to her first sheep project at age 8 and she was instantly hooked! The majority of her show career has been focused on raising market lambs, however in 2014 she was afforded the opportunity to have a year round project with her mentor and extension agent, Kaitlin Klair. She has always appreciated the Hampshire breed and decided to start her own flock. In doing so, she selected lambs from breeders whose stock she has admired and now is beginning to reap the rewards through her own breeding program.

Her flock today consists of 12 head, however, she should have lambs on the ground soon. Her favorite show that she attended is the All American Junior Show. She says "I really enjoy getting the opportunity to compete with other juniors on a national level that share my passion."

When asked what she likes about Hampshires, she says "Having raised crossbred market lambs for so long, I have an affinity with slick shorn Hampshires. I love their structure and overall breed characteristics."

Her fondest sheep memory is a toss-up between winning Supreme Ewe at the Delaware State Fair this past summer and winning her showmanship class at the All American this year too. She also says, "I must admit I was pretty excited to place first and second in the Futurity Programs this year as well!" She plans to continue to grow her flock and show in the open shows after her junior years wrap up. She wants to remain a mentor to younger showman and eventually have her own sheep business selling Hampshires and club lambs to local juniors. Her advice to younger members would be, "To get involved sooner rather than later. I wish I would have started with breeding sheep earlier in my showing career. I would also encourage them to seek knowledge from older juniors and to pass that knowledge along as they get older."

Sheep Selection

Stockpersons judge livestock to differentiate among the “superior,” “average,” and “inferior” animals within each of the livestock industries. They are looking for the “most desirable” animals for their particular needs. Stockpersons often compare their own livestock to those of others. Using their judging knowledge and skills, producers analyze the potential value of animals for particular purposes.

In order to successfully evaluate livestock you should be able to:

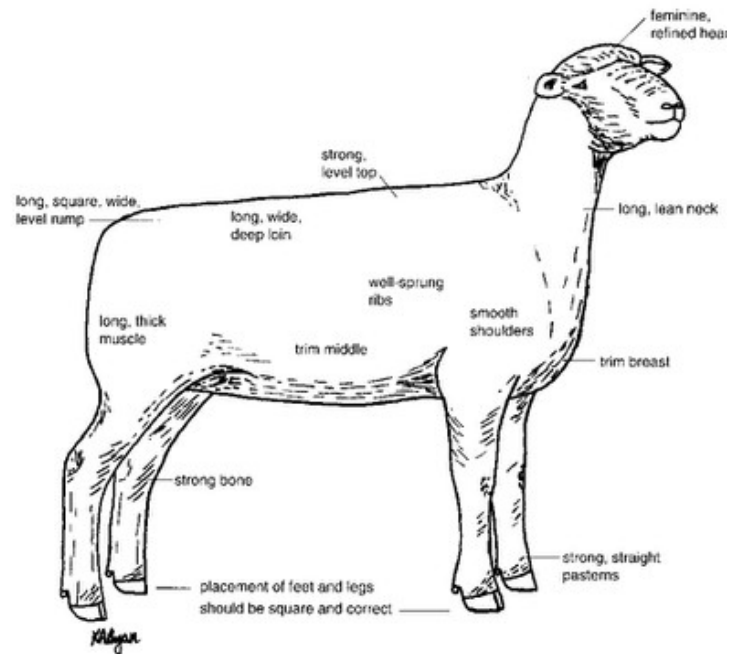

- Identify the different breeds of livestock,
- Compare livestock for their merit and value as either breeding or market animals,
- Look at an animal and determine its more desirable characteristics and its less desirable traits,
- Improve your livestock by selecting more desirable animals and gain an appreciation of their value for a particular purpose,
- Make decisions and defend them in a logical, well-organized manner,
- Make complex decisions based on a variety of information available, and
- Appreciate the opinions of other

Evaluation of breeding and market animals is the foundation of livestock production. Selection of animals is actually judging livestock, which is comparing the merits of one animal against the merits of other animals.

This selection process is just one of many applications of livestock evaluation and judging. Livestock producers, breeders, feeders, buyers, and packers evaluate livestock for their potential as either breeding or market animals. These people try to relate the “form” of an animal with the “function” for which it is intended to serve. That is why livestock judging is often called the application of “form and

Ideal Ewe

Before you start judging livestock, try to make a mental image of the perfect animal. You can do this by recalling the most desirable features of the high-quality animals that you have seen and thinking of them as belonging to one animal. You can also study pictures of champions, show reports, current livestock magazines, or “ideal-type” pictures from the breed associations.

Each time you judge a class of livestock or analyze a group of livestock, you should rely on a system of observing the animals. Listed below are a few pointers for judging a class or group of livestock:

1. Stand back—Allow enough room between yourself and the animals so that you can see all animals at one time. Usually, 25 to 30 feet is a good distance from which to view the class.

Hampshire Youth Connection

You should become skilled in placing the classes from a distance and handle the animals only to confirm your observations. It is a mistake to place a class only with the hands. Market lambs are often placed on visual appraisal and handling.

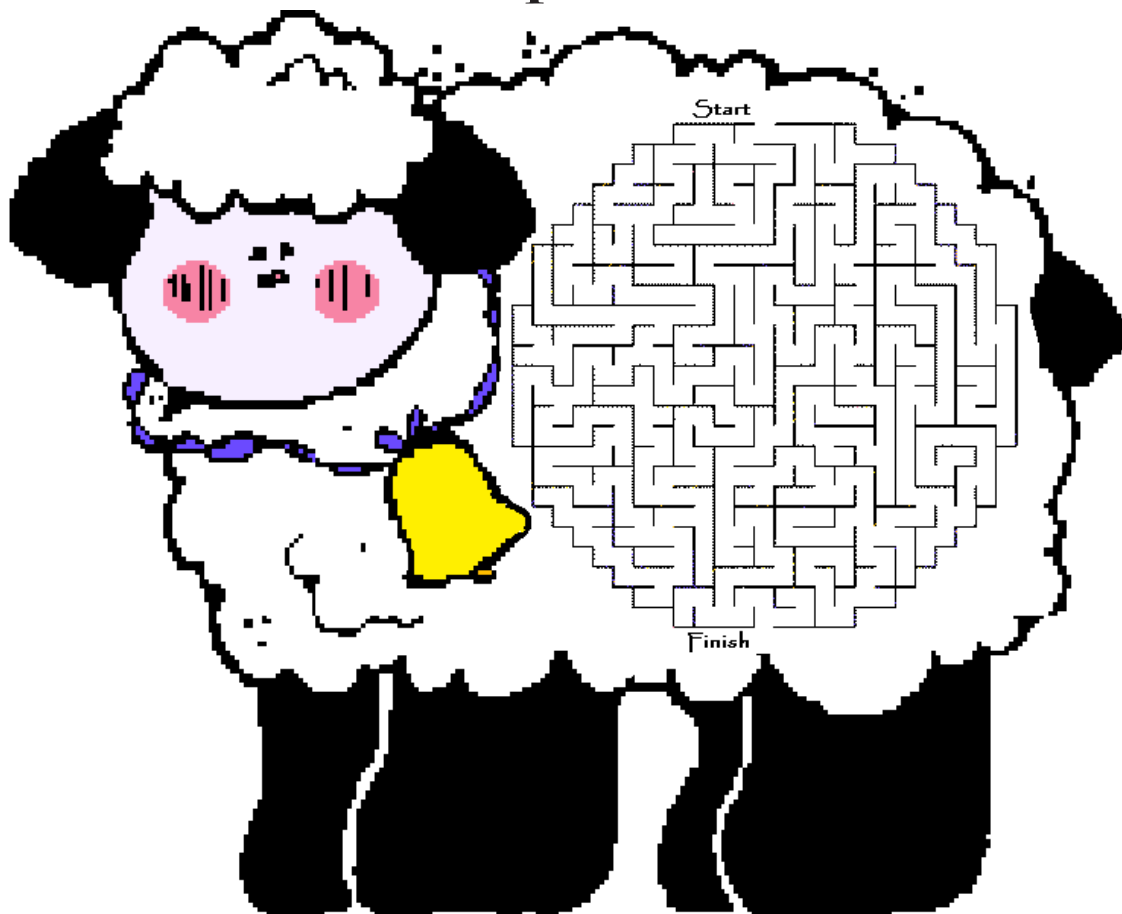

2. Three angles—Try to look at the class from the side, front, and rear. Compare each animal to the others in the class and to the “ideal” animal that you have pictured in your mind.

3. Big things first—Always look for and analyze the good and bad characteristics of each animal, in major areas such as: frame size, volume, condition, muscling, structural correctness, movement, and breed character. Learn to study the animals carefully.

Concentrate on the parts where we get the high-priced cuts. A keen judge of livestock is orderly and never haphazard. Make your placings according to the big things, unless a pair of animals is very similar, in which case you must analyze the minor differences between the animals.

4. Close inspection— When you are near the animals for close inspection or handling, you should simply confirm the decisions you made at a distance. If an animal appears or handles differently than what it looked like from a distance, and if the difference merits consideration, then change your decision. During close inspection of sheep, move quietly and cautiously so the animals don’t become nervous or excited.

Sheep Producers Captivated by Temple Grandin at Annual Meeting

Temple Grandin, Ph.D., Colorado State University, kicked off the festivities at one of the largest American Sheep Industry Association conventions in the last decade in her trademark way...by mesmerizing the audience with her concrete thinking.

It is impossible for anyone - students, educators, industry leaders or politicians - to understand agriculture and the way it operates without spending time in the field. Nebulous policies and vague guidelines won't work when you're standing in the pasture trying to understand the needs of your flock. And they certainly won't help sell your product to a suspicious consumer, Grandin shared. "I found that with some things like sustainability, it's easier to define what it's not," Grandin said. "Would you take your sheep out and just strip a pasture? We wouldn't do that now, but I've seen it done. That's obviously not sustainable."

Throughout her presentation, Grandin stressed the need to deal in tangible terms and concepts. Just as she continually urged students to get out into the fields they choose to study, she stressed the importance of producers dealing with complicated topics in real-world scenarios. "We have to remember that every phone is a TV station," continued Grandin. "Social media magnifies the voices of the far right and far left. The only way to counter such extremes is for those in the middle to make their voices heard. Social media can provide new avenues for building credibility with consumers."

The last time the American Sheep Industry Association held its annual meeting in Denver was in 2000. "If the turnout was any indication, membership was ready to return to the Rocky Mountains. Registration numbers once again topped those of all gatherings but one since the last Denver event," stated ASI Executive Director Peter Orwick.

As the industry celebrated the release of the newly created American Wool logo recognizing the versatility of American wool, textile-industry representatives also took center-stage to share their stories about programs supporting homegrown wool, innovative products and sustainability. The messages reinforced the concept that American wool is being used for the most comfortable socks imaginable, outdoor apparel capable of standing up to the toughest conditions and is an all-natural product that can be worn next to the skin.

According to Kelly Nester, Nester Hosiery, "100 percent American. Farm to Feet is committed to the single, simple goal of creating the world's best wool sock by exclusively using an all-American recipe: U.S. materials, U.S. manufacturing and U.S. workers."

Another textile representative, John Fernsell, Twizel Goods, stated, "Our mission is nothing short of changing the way clothes are made, from the fiber to your front door. Every Twizel item must forge a path to a better tomorrow starting with sustainable materials and the best intentions." There are global concerns surrounding the development of resistance to antibiotics important in human medicine. Use of antibiotics in human and animal health are among the factors presumed to be contributing to resistance. The Food and Drug Administration wants to help prevent the development of resistance and maintain the effectiveness of these drugs for human and animal health.

Meg Oeller, DVM, Ph.D., Office of Minor Use and Minor Species Animal Drug Development, FDA Center for Veterinary Medicine, discussed two efforts in this area in her presentation to the Board of Directors. "These endeavors involve increasing veterinary oversight of antibiotics that are considered 'medically important' in human medicine and removing approved label claims for use of these drugs for low-dose long-term production uses, such as to increase weight gain or feed efficiency." To this end, at FDA's request, the drug sponsors voluntarily changed the marketing status of these particular antibiotics from over-the-counter to prescription or veterinary feed directive status. These label changes now require veterinary oversight in the therapeutic use of these products."

"This process is clear for drugs approved for use in sheep," said Oeller. "Extra-label use (using the drug in sheep when it is approved for other mammalian species) is legal for water medications, following a veterinarian's order. Extra-label use is not legal for medicated feeds. However, FDA "will not recommend or initiate enforcement action" for medicated feed use in minor species (including sheep) provided certain considerations are met. This discretion will now include VFD feeds. The producer, the veterinarian and the feed mill should consult the Compliance Policy Guide and should abide by its considerations to use these feeds."

Oeller also provided a short update on the work of the Minor Use Animal Drug Program - a USDA program known as NRSP-7 in partnership with FDA and university researchers. This program conducts research to support new animal drug approvals of needed drugs for use in minor species of agricultural importance. This program has been responsible for approvals for sheep in the past and has projects in progress.

Jim Richards, Cornerstone Government Affairs, shared political analysis of the recent general election and expected impacts on government. He reviewed the sheep industry's priorities for 2017, stressing the importance of engaging in the 2018 Farm Bill process. Some of the top-tier concerns identified are to update and reauthorize the Wool Marketing Loan, infrastructure funding, sheep pharmaceutical approval and foot and mouth disease vaccine bank. Working through Congress to strengthen wildlife services, bighorn sheep language, new positions for the U.S. Sheep Experiment Station and small ruminant funding were also identified.

It was considered another productive year for the Young Entrepreneurs program with a record number of active participants. From a hands-on wool classing session and competition to presentations on crossbreeding, social networking, generational family transition and much more, the group stayed engaged throughout. "The sheep industry has again shown a united front with the gathering of all of the national sheep organizations under one umbrella here in Denver," said newly elected ASI President Mike Corn. "This meeting set the direction of the industry for the next year and I look forward to working with each of the volunteer leaders to accomplish these goals."

LAMBING ON FACEBOOK

By Kate Lambert

I hope this finds you in a little better position us. It's almost my birthday and we still don't have any lambs on the ground. With a soon to be 6 year old chomping at the bit to go to the Midwest Junior Preview Show in Missouri in June and the All-American in July in Wisconsin, an early January ewe lamb would have been nice. Luckily we have some great sales coming up for Hampshire sheep this spring, so I imagine we can find him a nice ewe lamb there!

With that in mind, I've already been paying attention to those lamb posts I've been seeing on social media. You've been seeing them as well no doubt. As a sheep producer, there isn't a more exciting time on the farm than lambing. And in a new era of social media, that excitement carries over to our phone and computer screens. There are a few things we should all keep in mind when sharing our lambing stories and pictures online.

Make it a good one

Baby lamb pictures are almost always cute. But how does the lamb look? Would you want the first impression of your next National Champion stud ram to be that he's a pretty common? Also pay special attention to the background of your images. You don't want your photo going viral for the wrong reasons.

Market beyond your picture

You've taken the time to capture a good image of your lamb, and want to share it to Facebook. Don't stop there! Tell us a tag number or name (but stick with the name once you brand them). Tell us who the parents are, what his birthdate was, if he has any siblings. As lambs get older and they are slated for certain sales or shows, tell us that! You have FREE advertising in every post you make, use it.

Avoid tagging everyone you know in the photos

As tempting as it is to get the word out on your lambs, don't overuse the "tag" feature. It's OK to use once in a while, but select folks who will genuinely be interested OR have a genuine interest in what you are posting. For instance, if you are taking a high powered ewe lamb to an early sale and she was sired by a ram you bought, tag the breeder of the ram. When you do this, make sure you are posting good images of a good animal, so you make the other breed proud as well.

Think like a customer

Finally, as I discussed before, always stop and check your post to make sure that all of our non-sheep friends won't be confused, alarmed, or misinformed by your picture. Make sure animals in all photos look clean and healthy and your barn looks tidy. I know nearly all Hampshire breeders strive to take the best care of their animals as possible, so make sure we showcase that online!

Best of luck to each you as you finishing up (or start) lambing! And by all means, please stop by and visit on Facebook at Uptown Farms and share your lamb pictures with me.

We lamb all the ewes at Mom and Dad's Place in Slayton and I keep fall lambs, Fall Lambing Ewes and Yearling at my place in Burbank during the winter. Our flock bloodlines are Caskey, Frame, Koehler, Heggemeier, Quam. Our current Stud Rams Herrig "Turbo", Herrig "Iron Horse", Strawberry Field 1520 "White Smoke" and a Caskey Ram.

Why did you choose to include registered Hampshires in your sheep operation?

We chose Hampshires for a couple reasons. The first reason was Dad raised hamps when he was younger and really liked them. The second reason was they make great terminal sires and with a lot of commercial operations in our area we could sell terminal sires besides selling registered seed stock.

What advice do you have for people starting out in the sheep business?

The most important piece of advice I could tell someone starting out is buy a group of ewes that are related so you get some consistence in your lamb crop.

What are one or two items that you have found to be critical for the success of your sheep operation?

The most important item for our success is good ewe families. The other item that makes our sheep operation successful is selling some of our good ones so other people can get some of our best genetics. We don't sell all the good ones but if we have 2 ewes that are bred the same we will sell one and keep the other.

Who are some people that you credit for your success with Hampshires?

Most of the credit needs to go to my Dad who helped get this going from the start and still does all the lambing and care for the most of the sheep. Bob Koehler, Art Frame and the Late Don Basche helped in the early years selling us reasonable priced ewe lambs and partnering on rams we couldn't afford to buy on our own. The last few years Dan and Kent Spilde have helped trim our sheep at the sale.

What is your favorite sports team?

Don't have one.

What is the top item on your bucket list?

Breeding a Hampshire that wins NAILE Open Show

What is your favorite food?

My dads leg of lamb on the grill.

What is the favorite place you have visited?

Minnesota State Fair.

HAMPSHIRE HERITAGE AWARD

TAMMY ZEDIKER LUIZ

MONTAGUE, CA

ESTABLISHED 1986

During the 1986 summer fair season, I traveled the northern California county fair circuit with my sister who was showing Columbias and I helped the Roberson family fit and show their 2 strings of Hampshires. At the end of the show season, I was asked by my father if I wanted to purchase 1 registered beef heifer or a string of sheep that I could show at other county fairs. The decision was easy...sheep.

My father contacted a few California Hampshire breeders to see what they had available. He said I could purchase two ewe lambs that would show as yearlings the next summer and three aged ewes that were bred so I'd have some lambs to show. We left right after my league cross country meet ended in Redding, CA and drove to Sonora on the weekend where I selected and purchased two Crego Dash for Cash ewe lambs from the Mother Lode Sheep Co. Over that Veteran's Day weekend, we drove to LeGrande and I purchased three bred aged ewes from Kathy Culpepper. The following year one of the ewes lambd with twins (a ram and a ewe). One of the other ewes lost her lamb and one ended up being open. I showed the lambs and yearlings the following year at six of the northern California county fairs.

My flock has included breeding from the following flocks over the years: Mother Lode Sheep Co., Kathy Culpepper, Rosie/Elizabeth Roberson, Rickow, Jones, Finder, Hubbard Roselawn, Image Club Lambs, Leventini, and Pumphrey to name a few.

While in college, I spent two summers fitting and showing sheep to pay my tuition. I showed up and down the state of California at county fairs, at the California State Fair, Arizona State Fair, and Cow Palace. I showed sheep for Lazy E Shropshires, Beaver Creek Hampshires/Suffolks/Dorsets, Richards Southdowns/Cheviots, and Al Hull Columbias. At times our first string consisted of 63 head of sheep. I continued to show my own breeding sheep at 4 of the northern California Fairs as well. I've shown my sheep all but 2 of my college years.

My grandmother Virginia Zediker also raised registered Hampshire sheep for a while in the late 1980's and 1990's. Her father, Roy Phillips, also raised sheep in the Sanger area of California, but I don't have any official documentation of what breed he raised. My grandparents boarded my sheep while I attended college and when I got married in 1996, I purchased a house and some acreage with my husband Mike Luiz allowing us to take back full control of my flock at our new place. We've been raising them on the same ranch in Montague, CA for the last 20 years. I have two daughters, 7 year old Hailee and 16 year old Dusti that also help with the sheep and show them. Dusti shows Hampshire market lambs from our flock and Hailee has shown in peewee showmanship contests.

I served as a 4-H leader for a couple of years right after college. I currently help with local sheep show days, help local clubs with judging practice, put on fitting demonstrations, and have the kids help with working lambs/shearing in the spring so they learn more than they would with just showing a market lamb. I still enter showmanship competitions (also known as Over-the Hill Showmanship/Round Robin) here and there to model what I tell the kids to do.

While still in 4-H, I earned many Champion and Reserve ribbons as well as the Outstanding Jr. Sheep Breeder at the Modoc County Fair in both 1988 and 1989. My sheep have continued to receive many Champion and Reserve awards at local county fairs over the years. We've even won a few Supreme Champion awards at Siskiyou Golden Fair, Shasta District Fair and the Tulelake-Butte Valley Fair.

My husband served on the Sheep Advisory Committee for California Farm Bureau from 2008-2010. We have been members of the Siskiyou County Young Farmer's and Ranchers and California Farm Bureau.

In addition to raising registered Hampshires, I have also had a flock of registered Columbias since 1988. My flock currently consists of 27 Hampshire brood ewes, 5 ewe lambs, 2 stud bucks, and a ram lamb. I also have 28 Columbia brood ewes, 7 ewe lambs, 2 stud bucks, a yearling ram, and three ram lambs between my two daughters and I. I continue to show my sheep locally with my husband, and in 2014 I exhibited and sold at the National Columbia Sheep Show. I'd love to show at some of the bigger California fairs again, but I need a second showman that can travel with me.

Although the sheep are registered in my name, they are marketed as Luiz Hampshires. I couldn't have managed the sheep without the help of my husband Mike and my show help from my sister Jacki Zediker. We currently have both frame sheep and a few whether sire sheep. We market our lambs to 4-H members, to commercial sheep breeders, as custom butcher lambs, and for registered breeding programs.
